MORROW DECLARES

thing while the other branch of the government holds to another. Attention would first be paid to the Treasury department's ruling and then the matter will be taken up with the commission.

At some length Mr. Morrow discussed the subject of the reports to be made in reference to the trade bureau, which he declared would be worthless unless they are true and accurate. In return the members would receive accurate information. Liking the massing of individual reports into a blanket report where identity is lost, Mr. Morrow said: "Suppose I take a glassful of water and throw it into the river you cannot tell where that particular water is in the river."

It is supposed to have an office in Pittsburgh for the coal fields of Western Pennsylvania, Northern West Virginia and Ohio. Daily market information can be received there. The press associations will carry a resume of the markets, including prices and the conditions in the various fields. Newspapers will not accept it unless it is truthful and accurate, he added. He looked with favor on the stopping of the shipment of coal for re-shipment, which order was again effective on February 1. He plainly outlined the harm that was done by this shipment, discussing at length the conditions encountered in the City of Chicago. Jobbers in some instances either scraped the operators or the consumers. In some cases where it is necessary as it was in Kansas City, conditions warranting it may be able to bring this about by securing permission.

Galloway Outlines Plans.
C. W. Galloway, Baltimore, federal manager of the eastern lines of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, made the first address of the afternoon. He told of the conditions of the past year and how the B. & O. was obliged to take off as high as 48 freight engines a day and convert them into passenger traffic in order to move the troops. Thrice Camp Sherman at Chillicothe, O. was filled and twice emptied and all this traffic went over the B. & O. The officials then were not in a position to tell the operators the facts because they were forbidden by the government to refer to any troop movement. As many as 450 sleepers were needed at times and numerous special trains were run. The railroad wants to move your production he added, but we need the co-operation of the coal operators to successfully do this. Arrangements are being made whereby a better movement is had out of the State of West Virginia. Here he outlined the overflow line the B. & O. has provided by the F. M. & P. via Connellsville and thence to Cumberland.

Between $700,000 and $1,000,000 has been expended in making provision for this traffic he declared. This will handle excess business and assure a free movement out of the Fairmont region.

"Officials of the B. & O. together with myself and associates will do our utmost to render satisfaction. The problem is to get the business out and we will appreciate the co-operation of the coal operators and we want suggestions of a helpful nature, invite constructive criticism and will welcome your help in that way. He appreciated the friendly spirit on both sides and added "I want to encourage that. The officials are desirous of meeting every reasonable condition. Now we start off on a new slate. We're here to help you and you are here to help us," he said in concluding a New Start.

Stanley Ennis, Baltimore, general manager of the eastern lines of the B. & O., was the next speaker. "We are now getting a fresh start and we want you to bear with us. With the opening of a new season we hope to be able to serve you better. We want to wipe out the bad memories of 1912. The F. M. & P. will be used as an overflow line. Labor conditions are improving and are now getting supplies that were ordered more than a year ago. More men are returning to the shops. More men are returning to the car department. The car supply promises to be good because a number of new cars are being built and we are getting more locomotives." John M. Scott, Wheeling, general superintendent, was the next speaker. He said he felt sure that he could promise the cooperation of the coal operators of the Fairmont region. The road had difficult problems to handle during the past year and sometimes it looked as if it fell down. He assured better conditions in the future.

Directors Elected.
Two hundred and fifty people heard the addresses yesterday afternoon, which included coal operators and a number of Fairmont business men.

Late in the afternoon reports were made of the elections that took place at the district meetings. The results were as follows:

Directors at large—C. D. Robinson, J. M. Wolfe, of Fairmont; E. Drennen, of Elkins.

Glascock, Marshall; J. M. Riggs, Wayne; Andrew Price, Pocahontas; F. F. Morgan, Pleasants; R. F. Dunlap, Summers.

Excerpts from letters of county chairmen to Mr. Barnes are as follows:

George W. Fetzer, of Hardy county, writes: "The relationship existing since my appointment has been pleasant to me, and I have always been glad to do all I could and wish it could have been more to the bringing about of a successful outcome of the war."

Dale R. Glascock, of Marshall, writes: "My association with the State Fuel administration has been very pleasant, and I am glad that I have been able in this way to do my bit in the work."

M. N. Price, of Hancock county, writes: "I want to thank you for the courteous treatment during our association."

E. D. Talbot, of Randolph county, writes: "I certainly appreciate your assistance."

P. J. Alexander, of Mercer county, writes: "I beg to assure you the appreciation that our committee felt in knowing that you were behind us in everything we did which made our work much lighter than it would have been otherwise."

F. F. Morgan, of Pleasants county, in writing a postscript in his letter says "Since writing the foregoing I have received word that my son, who has arrived in New York city from France is in a rather critical condition from wounds received in the Argonne forest."

G. W. Dodderar, of Harrison county, writes: "Assuring you that our relations and our service under the fuel administration has been more pleasant but rejoicing with you that the need of its continuance no longer exists."

Mrs. Nancy M Snoderly Dies This Morning

Mrs. Nancy M. Snoderly, widow of Elmos Z. Snoderly, died this morning at 8 o'clock of a complication of diseases following an attack of "flu" at her home along Davies run near Farmington. She was sixty-six years old, and was born along Davies run, having been a daughter of Newton and Lavina Kelley Snoderly.

These children survive: J. C. Snoderly, J. N. Snoderly, Mrs. Ezra Board, Mrs. Howard Pyles, Mrs. Joe Bland, Mrs. French Barnes and Fred, all residing in the Davies run section. No funeral arrangements have been made as yet, but the funeral will probably be held on Friday or Saturday.

Decisions Rendered in Intermediate Court

In intermediate court the following decisions have been rendered: Phoebe Ellen Watson vs. Sidney W. Jones et al, commissioners of partition of real estate report to court that land cannot be divided among the heirs and a decree was entered confirming the report and directing the sale of the property, appointing W. M. Hess special commissioner to sell same under bond of $4,000; State vs. Myrtle Ricker, warrant was sworn out by Basile Sturm, 91 years of age. The humane officer arrested the girl and she gave recognition for $200 with security. The case will be tried February 7; State vs. William Miller and Berkeley Miller. Neither can be found.

Last night the Fairmont "Y" basketball team arrived home from Salem. They leave for Buckhannon to play Wesleyan College on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

"From Mimicry to Munitions—and Back"—might be the title of Miss Margot Park's life romance. Miss Park is a successful and beautiful English actress who gave up her stage career to make shells during three war years. Now she's returned to the footlights and stopped aiding the destruction to add to their gaiety.

COAL PRICES ARE ON THE INCREASE

Not Much Activity But Situation Good, Says Coal Age.

COAL PRICES ARE— . . . . . NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—In its issue tomorrow Coal Age will say:

There is no activity in the coal market. A noticeable feature, however, is the fact that the relinquishment of government control, instead of resulting in lowered coal prices, has brought about an increase in price of the high-grade bituminous coals. Coal mines in Franklin county Ill., has advanced 30 cents a ton, while sales of West Virginia smokeless coals are being made at 40 cents above the last fixed government price.

So extremely dull is the demand for all kinds of coal that hundreds of operations have been shut down pending a revival of buying. No such revival is expected much before the first of May, when it is believed that consumers who have been using up their reserves will again be forced to come into the market. The shutting down of the mines has served to tighten the condition of the market, and it is not at all improbable that other grades of coal besides those already referred to will increase in price before the month is out. Wherever sales are reported at considerable concessions from the Garfield prices, investigation discloses that the coals so sold are in small lots and of an inferior grade.

Henry Trigg Issues Statement to Public

Henry Trigg, a Monongah colored man against whom an accusation has been made has issued the following statement addressed to his "fellow citizens of Marion county":

Oh, if I were only able to open up and let you behold in a written parchment with the seal of Almighty God and the Holy Angels, you would there find that I am as innocent of this false charge as an infant babe in a mother's lap. Oh, how hard for any poor, helpless soul to walk around with such a stain upon his unblemished character without recourse.

Fellow citizens I pray God that the time will come in this blessed land of ours when justice will prevail and righteousness be rewarded. I am a cripple, afflicted with an invalid wife to support. And did have all this to bear. With the remarks I add no more. Your Christian friend and brother, HENRY TRIGG.

Lynn Plant is Now Making Gas Here

Announcement was made today that the Lynn plant is operating three producers and making gas, which is passing through the super-heaters, hot gas mains and 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 washers and wasting out of the top of 5.

SERVICE OFFICERS ELECTED.

These officers have been elected of the Monongah Service Company: President, C. H. Tarleton; vice president, L. A. Riggs; secretary and treasurer, M. E. Ashcraft.

The total cost of the Grant mausoleum, in New York City, was about $600,000, contributed by about 90,000 persons, and with the exception of about $40,000, the entire amount was subscribed by the people of New York City.

Uncle Sam is the largest renter of space in New York City. No one here knows definitely how much he has, but guesses made have placed the amount at 2,000,000 square feet, irrespective of the large amount in the hands of army supply contractors.

NEW CONVERTS

the appreciation which expressed itself strenuously.

Prof. W. A. Husted spoke as follows: "I shall never forget these meetings. I want especially to say that during Mr. McKinley's stay with us, we have learned to love him. He has brought sunshine to our town and to our schools. I don't know how we will get along without him to take part in what we do. The High school and grades over here went to express our well wishes. I think it might be well for all who wish to express appreciation and thanks to Mr. McKinley to rise in a body. That's fine. Thank you. Sit down. Now Prof. McKinley, come up here. I want to present this watch to you as a proof of our high esteem."

Director McKinley seemed stunned. He looked at the beautiful watch a moment and then he said: "It's twelve minutes past eight. I never was so surprised in my life. I do want to say this, however; if only by your coming every night, I knew you appreciated everything I have done. I appreciate greatly the beautiful watch you have so kindly bought for me. I have given you the best service I knew anything about—the best of my energy." The choir started "God be with you all we meet again," and without music this last message was given to the leader. It was a touching parting song.

Announcements were made as follows: Rev. Charles F. Eddy, of the Baptist church, announced Sunday school and church as usual Sunday at his church and stated that all who had accepted Christ would be given a chance to receive their membership Sunday. Sixty-three was young people's meeting and 7:30 was the time for evening service again.

Rev. Lawson announced a ten days' continued revival service at his church beginning tonight. He said he was not doing it for spite against the other preachers but because he thought it was needed for his people. Sunday school and church were to be as usual there with a special meeting for boys and girls from 8 to 15 years of age at 2:30 Sunday afternoon. Junior Christian Endeavor will start again at 6:30 and evening service at 7:30.

Rev. Wells announced a meeting of the Finance committee at seven Friday evening and at eight a meeting of the official board, preparatory for quarterly conference. Sunday school and church will be at the usual hours. There will not be much preaching Sunday morning as a hearty welcome will be given all new converts. Those who have expressed preference for any church outside of the three on the East side will be helped toward their choice. Epworth League will begin service at 6:30 and the Sunday evening service will be held as usual. Dr. Archibald Moore will be the preacher. There will be a Bible class at the Community House tonight at 7:30 and a very good program has been planned with Rev. R. J. Yoak the preacher.

Rev. Eddy spoke earnestly of the services which ended last evening. He spoke of the excellent co-operative spirit of the three East side churches and of the fine weather which had helped make the meetings a success. He thanked the members of the Diamond street church for the use of their church. He thanked the janitors who kept the building in comfortable condition, the ushers for giving their time and the personal workers for their untiring efforts. He especially thanked the choir and the orchestra, and Prof. McKinley for his gracious, genial Christianity. He thanked The West Virginian and The Times for giving such large space to all the meetings—in this way helping many who could not attend all the services. Much is due the teachers of the schools and the generous offerings each evening are greatly appreciated.

Prof. McKinley had a word to say: "The East side never had three better preachers than it has now." There was some thunderous clapping. "Every one of them has stood pat for his own church and his own congregation but you couldn't tell which was which. It has been the best co-operative spirit I ever saw. Don't forget—The East Side for Christ!"

Miss Bertha Dilgard sang "Just as I Am," very beautifully. An experience meeting followed with many people on their feet in a moment, one by one. Sometimes two spoke at once. Often several stood waiting ready to speak as soon as some one else had finished. Just a word or two was spoken and most of the expressions were thanks for the good received through the meetings. Several asked for prayers to help them in the new life. A number wanted help to keep them from backsliding. One girl said this was her second start and she trusted she would hold out. Even the young boy and girl converts spoke a word or two shyly.

Rev. Wells called it a pop-corn meeting and all over the church—even to the gallery in the Sunday school room, men, women and young people arose. One woman asked for prayers for her husband in France so that when he returned, her home might be a happy one. Rev. Wells said: "If you want happiness and joy, this is the way to find it. If there is anyone present who can tell us of a better, bigger joy, I wish he would arise." "There isn't any," exclaimed a member of the choir outloud. "How beautiful are these people who have just accepted God," said a trembling voice in the congregation.

Director McKinley sang a parting solo, enjoyed by everybody. An invitation was then extended to all who had not yet accepted Christ but who wanted to before the services closed. "You've heard enough sermons," said Rev. Wells, "and know what it means to come. All who have accepted Christ since the meetings began, please stand. Remain on your feet. It will help others. Jesus is here and waiting. Let us pray for all the unsaved." Some standing—some sitting, the silence of prayer prevailed for a moment. Where a moment before there was great stirring and some restless house, an instant hush settled over the house. "Just lift your hands if you would like to be a Christian and want prayers."

"He Leadeth Me" was started by somebody and many voices joined in. Fathers with babies asleep in arms rocked back and forth in their chairs while they sang. Mothers who could not stand up because of still more children lost in oblivion on their laps, sang nevertheless. Many young voices carried the air clearly. "The Way of the Cross leads Home" ended the singing for a short time. Rev. Wells said he always pronounced the last benediction with trembling heart because he feared there might be some one present who would turn away—almost ready to give his heart to God. He told a story of a young man who did this very thing. He died soon after without another opportunity to accept Christ. "Every time I think of that experience my heart aches!"

Mrs. McMillen sang one of the most inspiring songs she has yet sung and many hearts were touched. A number were almost prepared to surrender and during the after meeting which was held, 10 more gave their hearts to God. Prof. McKinley and Miss Dilgard sang a duet. During Mrs. McMillen's song, the electric lights in the church died slowly down to faintness and as she spoke the words softly,—"He died for me on Calvary, to grove His marchless love"—her voice swept a completely hushed house.

There have been 194 converts since the revival meetings began on the East side. Counting renewals of faith the number is well over two hundred. Edward J. McKinley, musical director, leaves for Weston today to conduct another song service at the M. P. Temple where a revival is to be conducted.

The sum of $105.87 was taken in collections during the services. This money will go to the Syrian fund. An offering was also taken for the City Missionary Union and Social Service committee and $14.75 for each association was collected. The sum of $100 was donated in a few moments Sunday evening to take care of the expenses of the religious campaign.

A. B. Scott & Co. is Selling Out Jewelry

The old established firm of A. B. Scott & Co. is discontinuing its jewelry business on Main street. The stock on hand is being disposed of at auction, and it is stated that Mr. Scott expects to be engaged in the future exclusively in the optical business. While this popular jewelry store will be missed, it is pleasing that Mr. Scott will remain active in the line which has gained him many friends.
